Station Casinos History:

Frank Fertitta Jr., who started in the gaming industry as a dealer at the Stardust, had a novel idea back in the '70s to create a casino that would cater to Las Vegas locals at a time when casinos were only located on the Strip and in downtown Las Vegas. The idea was simple: create a gaming and entertainment venue for locals away from the crowds of tourists, and provide them with great value, service and convenience. While many dismissed the idea, Fertitta, together with three other investors, defied the odds and in July 1976, opened a 5,000 square foot facility with 100 slot machines and a snack bar called "The Casino" (today Palace Station).

Today, the Company has grown from one single property with 90 employees to 20 properties with 14,000 employees throughout S. Nevada today. The Company has been run by Fertitta's two sons, Frank III and Lorenzo since the early 90's and they have carried on their father's legacy with great pride.

As of May 2, 2016, Station Casinos once again became a publicly-traded company on NASDAQ under the name Red Rock Resorts, Inc, (NASDAQ: RRR). Red Rock Resorts manages and owns a significant indirect equity interest in Station Casinos. The Company that owns the majority of properties is still known as Station Casinos

Station Casinos' properties:

The Company owns and operates 20 properties throughout S. Nevada.

Media Criteria

Please be aware that the PR team will do its best to accommodate your media needs. However, it's important to note that our properties are private and approval to utilize our facilities for any kind of story must be obtained in advance through the PR department. Our security teams have a strict policy to only allow media on site once approved in advance by the PR team.

PR escorts

An escort will be assigned to assist you with onsite interviews or photography/videography.

Live TV remote trucks

Please work with our PR team in advance of setting up any live remotes as we have to identify the best location for parking, to avoid any disruption of operations on property and to ensure that all your on-site needs are met.

Covering a meeting, convention or banquet

We host hundreds of local and national meetings, conventions and banquets that often times are newsworthy. We ask that you contact both the organized meeting planner/host of the event to alert them of your interest as well as a member of our PR team so we may clear it with the security team at the designated property.

Photography/videography of our guests

If you require footage that includes filming of our guests, please be respectful of guest privacy. We will secure permission of any guest prior to photographing them and/or we will post signage indicating that filming is taking place in that area. You may not take any up close images of our guests without their consent.
